

Teacher Training: Video production and intercultural communication

The Austrian Ministry of Education (BMUKK) organises together with the European network „viducate“ and the Medienwerkstatt Wien present a workshop for educators:

viducate@MediaLab

- Video production and intercultural communication

The goal of the workshop is to explore audio-visual production within intercultural dialogue. It will be about creativity and the networking of video, stills and sound.

Small teams will explore the multicultural surroundings of the Medienwerkstatt with flip cameras. Still images will be provided for the teams to re-interpret and bring to life. The snap shot outcomes will be installed in the Medienwerkstatt.

An informal forum afterwards will give space to exchange ideas, experiences and practices in the wider field of video and media education. Latest project ideas, best practice video examples and relevant publications will be presented. Make sure you bring your ideas and materials along!

We expect participants from across Europe. The workshop will offer ample opportunities for networking with colleagues from other countries.

English will be the main language of the day but we welcome any language to make this day more colourful.

When: Wednesday, 19th October 2011
Time: 10.00 - 16.00
Where: Medienwerkstatt Wien, Neubaugasse 40A, 1070 Wien
For whom: Teachers, media educators, students

bm:uk

The event is free but you need to register beforehand via email:

armin.hottmann@mediaeducation.net

Project partners:

www.mediamanual.at

www.viducate.net

www.medienwerkstatt-wien.at

